save money save water + the environment

are you flushing money down the drain?

Most business premises use more water than they realize.

The average mens urinal flushes every 10 minutes and can use over 235,000 litres of water a year. Just think of the cost.

NOW THERE IS A SOLUTION THAT WILL SAVE WATER AND SAVE MONEY INTRODUCING ENVII

With envii you can simply turn off the water supply to the urinal and start saving immediately. The envii toilet block contains billions of specifically selected multiple strains of friendly bacteria which basically feed on the components of urine, 7 days a week, 24 hours a day, helping prevent blockages and nasty odours.

What is more they couldn't be easier to install and there is no need for capital costs or service contracts.

envii eco washroom solutions are as easy as 1,2,3 with no need for any other products

The same concept is also used in the envii cistern toilet block. Again billions of specifically selected friendly bacteria work 24/7 feeding off the residue left on the toilet pan and around the rim. The result is a constantly clean, bright toilet pan.

Envii liquid cleaner is 100% biodegradable, pH neutral and non caustic, using good bacteria to digest the nasty bacteria typically found on washroom surfaces, including floors, walls, sanitaryware, missors and showers.

It's a single product that works 24/7 and suits the whole washroom.
